HON. M. F. POGUE

Accepts Nomination for Representative in Letter to Chairman Mitchell.

Frances, Ky., Aug. 21, 1911.
J. L. Mitchell, Esq.,
Birdsville, Ky.,

Dear Sir:

I have had your notification of my nomination for Representative for some weeks, and have deferred action on same till after meeting of platform convention, and I am glad to say that a platform has been built upon which I am proud to stand, and one of which Democrats generally can find but little fault.

I accept the nomination. I do so after mature deliberation, and assurance of support from all parties. It has been a struggle for me to decide to sacrifice time and money to again represent you in the Lower House of the next General Assembly. But my duty to the call of the grand old Democracy of Livingston county is too plain. My heart goes out to them in this great compliment they have paid me in asking me the third time to carry their banner to victory; the waiver of their right to name the candidate this time, thereby

A CORRECTION.

There was published in last issue, a dispatch from Henderson purporting to give the price at which the Marion tobacco was sold. The price was erroneous. The dispatch did not come from Association headquarters, and its publication was an oversight.

Only Two Weeks Left.

For several weeks we have been offering enough alfalfa seed to sow one tenth of an acre, as a premium with one year's subscription to our paper and the Farmer and Stockman of St. Louis, Missouri. There are only two weeks left, in which our readers can take advantage of this offer, September 16th the offer will be withdrawn.

September is the ideal month in which to sow alfalfa seed. A. P. Grout, the well known Illinois farmer writes: "The best results I have obtained from sowing alfalfa have been when I sowed the seed in September. I have even sown as late as the first of October, and secured an excellent stand. The principle advantage in the late seed, is in avoiding the weed."

We believe that any farmer in this county will be able to produce alfalfa, and it is our desire to assist him in the experiment by furnishing this seed.

We hope that every reader will send in his order before September 16th. Send all orders to our office.

PRESIDENT'S VETO

Is Criticized By Congressman James —Says Taft is Scheming to Protect wool Interests

Washington, D. C., Aug., 28.
—Ollie M. James today scathingly denounced President Taft's veto of the wool bill.

"His argument that he should wait until the tariff commission reports is a fraud and farce," said Mr. James, "and is only a pretext behind which the enormously protected interests may continue to loot the American people. The President and his friends did not consider that a tariff commission was necessary when they put the taxes upon the American consumer as they did in the McKinley and Payne-Aldrich bills. Not until the people are demanding a reduction of taxation have they fallen back on the tariff commission idea as a make shift to block tariff revision."

Mr. James was actually at work today lining up votes to pass the wool revision bill over the President's veto.

When He was Known to all as "Whitey" James.

"Whitey" James lives at Marion.
Do I hear you say, "Who is Whitey James and where is Marion?"

Well, Marion is the county seat of Crittenden County, Kentucky. According to the thirteenth census, it has 1,624 inhabitants, this including Whitey who really could count for two or three if avoirdupois were the basis. As a town it is noted for the culture and hospitality of its people and the really extensive business that is done, while the territory surrounding it is fertile on the surface and is underlaid with such rich deposits of lead, zinc and fluor spar as to make it second in importance only to the famous Joplin, Missouri, district. But, after all, the town's chief claim to a prominent place in the spotlight of everyday affairs is that it is the home of "Whitey" James.

THE ANNUAL MEETING.

On Saturday, Sept., 2nd, at Henderson will be held the annual meeting of the Stemming District Tobacco Association. At this meeting tobacco growers from all over the district will gather to hear the report of officers for the ensuing year, and discuss plans for the future.

FUNNEL BRIGADE

Proposition to Pipe Beer Into The Homes Like Water.

The leading citizens of Mont Clair, N. J., whose names are withheld, but whose ability to make good is said to be unquestioned, have sent a communication to Mayor Hinch asking that he place before the Common Council of Mont Clair their request for a franchise to run beer pipes into every home, connecting a reservoir of beer at one end, a meter like unto a gas meter at the other.

The enormous tank would be located on a neighboring hill, sufficiently high to give abundant pressure and the pipes would be carried particularly into what is known as Upper Mont Clair, where at present there are no saloons.

As an evidence of good faith, and likewise as an inducement toward securing the franchise, the promoters agree to pay the city one third of the profits or a flat rate of $800 a year for each 2,000 inhabitants.

The reply of Mayor Hinch and the Common Council will be awaited with the keenest interest. — Washington Times.

PLATFORM ON WHICH KENTUCKY DEMOCRATS WILL FIGHT THIS FALL.

On National Issues.

Sec. 1.—We, the Democrats of Kentucky, in delegate convention duly assembled and held in the city of Louisville, Ky., on Aug. 15, 1911, do hereby pledge anew our faith in and devotion to the time-honored and eternal principles of our party first promulgated in the declaration of independence and since reaffirmed in successive platform of the party, and we especially reaffirm our faith in and devotion to the National Democratic platform adopted at Denver, Colo., in the year, 1908.

Sec. 2.—We denounce the Republican party and the present Republican president for their flagrant and willful betrayal of the trust reposed in them by the American people and call attention especially to the fact that they have willfully disregarded their pre-election promises to the effect that they would revise downward the unjust tariff system and would relieve the masses of the people of the heavy burdens of unjust and unnecessary taxation.

On the contrary, the Republicans enacted the odious Payne-Aldrich tariff law of 1909, pronounced by Mr. Taft to be "the best Republican tariff law ever passed," and which law was a gross breach of faith of the Republican president and his political party. This tariff law, in order to enrich the few, increased the burdens of the many, and authorized those favored few not only to continue, but to increase, their robbery of the many under the forms of law.

Sec. 3.—We point with pride to, and heartily endorse, the patriotic record made by the present Democratic members of congress and Democratic senators, in their efforts, over determined Republican opposition to, in good faith, redeem the promises of the Democratic party to repeal unjust and oppressive Republican laws, and to enact wise and just laws for the benefit of the great masses of the people, and we invite all to contrast the aims and records of the Democrats in the house and senate of the present session of congress with the aims and record of Republicans and especially with the Republican session of 1909, which enacted the Payne-Aldrich tariff law.

We especially endorse the record of our Democratic congressmen and senator from Kentucky for their fidelity in keeping the promises of their party and representing the people and not the interests, and we denounce the record of the Republican congressmen and senator from Kentucky because they have represented not the people nor have they sought to relieve their burdens, but have represented the privileged, protected interests of the country.

On State Issues.

Sec. 4.—Kentucky is, and of right ought to be, a Democratic state, and the Democratic party in appealing for the support of the electorate of the state eagerly invites an intelligent comparison of the records it has made with those made by its political adversary during the temporary occasions it has controlled the affairs of the state.

As against the Republican record in Kentucky of assassination, bloodshed and disregard of law, we present the Democratic picture of peace, scrupulous regard for human life and a strict observance of, and respect for, law; as against an empty treasury, and rejection and shaving of honest demands against the state, we present a picture of a magnificent state capitol erected and paid for without any extra tax, and every just claim against the state promptly met and paid in full; as against platform pledges and promises broken and made to be broken, we present a record of all pledges and promises, faithfully kept; as against hypocrisy, demagoguery and incompetency we present a record of sincerity, fidelity, competency and statesmanship.

We denounce the action of the Republican Governor for his partisan and unjust action in pardoning the men indicted for participation in the assassination of William Goebel, the governor of our state, and we assert that those pardons were granted for political reasons, and not upon the merits of the cases.

Job work that pleases;
Advertising that pays

We charge the Republican party, both in the state and in the nation, with gross extravagance and willful waste in the expenditure of the people's money, and we pledge ourselves to retrenchment and reform and to an economical, business administration of public affairs.

Sec. 5.—We are in favor of conducting all primary elections under lawful authority and at public expense and to be regulated in the same manner and subject to the same penalties, for violations, as in case of regular elections.

Sec. 6.—We favor the enactment of an explicit and effective corrupt practice act, which shall determine what campaign expenses shall be legitimate, and which shall provide for the compulsory publication in detail, under heavy penalties, of the campaign expenses of every candidate for public office.

Sec. 7.—We favor the enacting of such additional laws as will make our entire common school system more efficient and more practical.

We pledge our support to our school system and the educational institutions of the state, wisely and economically administered. Money appropriated for the education of the people is an investment and not an expense; school trustees, school boards and all school officials should be held rigidly responsible for adequate returns on every dollar so invested. We charge the Republican party with neglect and indifference towards our school system.

Recognizing that a large majority of the teachers of our common schools are women and that women are now eligible to be elected school trustee, county school superintendent, and to hold office, and are frequently so elected, we favor the extension to women of suffrage in all school elections, subject to such wise regulations as to qualifications as the general assembly may determine.

Sec. 8.—We favor such laws as will, under appropriate penalties, destroy all corrupt lobbying seeking to influence any legislative body in the commonwealth on the subject of legislation or the election of officers by it, or in any other matter; but we recognize the constitutional right of the people to petition and to be impartially heard on all questions.

Sec. 9.—We favor, under wise and proper restrictions, the creation of a state utilities commission, having ample powers to discharge its duties.

Sec. 10.—We favor a change in the present method of selecting the Prison Commissioners of the state, and the removal of all politics from the management of our penal institutions. While commending the present Board of Prison Commissioners for its successful management of the institutions under its care, we recognize that the system of election by the Legislature, under which they are elected, is unwise, and we therefore favor such a change as will place their appointments in the hands of the Governor, subject to confirmation by the Senate, or some other method such as the General Assembly may provide.

Sec. 11.—We favor a law requiring that a uniform system of accounting be installed and conducted in all public offices charged with the collection and disbursement of public moneys.

Sec. 12.—We favor the general assembly submitting to a vote of the people whether or not they desire to adopt an amendment of our state constitution broadening the powers of the general assembly, so that it may classify property for the purpose of taxation; but we are opposed to any law the effect of which would be to lighten the burdens of taxation on the wealthy and on corporations at the expense of the poor, the farmer or the laboring man.

Sec. 13.—Temperance is essentially a moral, non-political, and social question and should not be made a partisan issue between political parties.

We favor the extension of the present local option law as applied to the sale of liquors, and which has been upheld by our highest court as valid and constitutional, so that the citizens of each and every county in the state may determine for themselves whether spirituous, vinous or malt liquors may be sold therein.

Sec. 14.—We favor organization and co-operation among the farmers and laborers of the state and the enactment of such constitutional laws as will protect them from the greed and oppression of the trusts and monopolies of the country, which are the direct fruit of Republican legislation.

Sec. 15.—We favor such wise and conservative laws as will encourage road and bridge building in Kentucky, and we favor reasonable state aid for the construction of roads and bridges, but only on condition that each county or local community, which is primarily benefited, shall first do its part and discharge its duty to itself in this regard.

Sec. 16.—We favor the creation removed from politics, of a department of banking, providing for competent inspection of all our state financial institutions, and similar to the system now existing for national banks.

Sec. 17.—We favor the enactment of such wise laws as will put into effect all sections and provisions of the state constitution, and we declare that we are in favor of the enforcement of all laws.

Sec. 18.—We favor the enactment of wise laws for the protection from accident and injury of all laborers engaged in hazardous employments, and we favor a wise, conservative law regulating the arbitration of labor strikes and disputes.

Sec. 19.—We favor a law prohibiting peonage and female slave traffic, regardless of color.

Sec. 20.—We are opposed to all mobs and lynchings and are in favor of imposing the severest penalty possible, under our constitution, on all officers who fail to protect prisoners entrusted to their keeping.

Sec. 21.—The Democratic party has always been the party of religious as well as of civil liberty in Kentucky and in the republic. It refers with pride to its noble and consistent record on this important question so "dear to every true American heart." We are in full accord, both in letter and in spirit, with the teachings of Thomas Jefferson, the founder of our party on this question and with the provisions of our state and federal constitutions, and we are unalterably opposed to raising any religious test as a qualification for holding any office in the state or nation.

Sec. 22.—We favor the nomination and election of United States senators by direct vote of the people.

Sec. 23.—We denounce and are opposed to Cannonism or one-man power in all representative assemblies whether it be in the congress or in representative conventions. We favor the "rule of the people."

Sec. 24.—On this platform of principles and on the aims and purposes of our party in the state and in the nation we appeal to all Kentuckians, irrespective of previous political affiliations, who are proud of the past and desire a still more prosperous and more progressive present and future, for all our people, to support our magnificent state ticket, including our nominee for United States senator and our nominees for general assembly and other offices.

Conclusion.

Sec. 25.—In conclusion we call the attention of Kentuckians to the fact that democratic principles are triumphant in the nation and in almost every state and that the Republican party everywhere is professing to adopt Democratic principles in its platform, but we warn them that the Republican party has planned in their platform some progressive Democratic doctrines not with a view of carrying them out, or to attempt to carry them out, in good faith, in the improbable event of their success at the polls next November, but only for the present purpose of catching votes and deceiving the people so that they might get the offices and emoluments thereof. The broken promises of the present Republican state and national administrations as well as the entire history of the Republican party is sufficient to convince all fair-minded citizens of the insincerity of the Republican party and that it is not the party of the people; while on the other hand the record and history of the Democratic party in the nation and in the state, conclusively established its devotion to duty and its purpose in good faith to redeem all platform pledges made to the people.

BIG SHOW COMING

The newspaper exchanges all read highly of Dan Robinson's Circus Show. A recent article in a Kansas City paper says: "With thrills galore and clowning plenty, with all the dirt, sawdust, the panorama of moving crowds, and the subtle art of entertainment that goes with a circus, the Dan Robinson show part us its annual visit.

"The crowd was a circus crowd. There were people of all classes— youngsters with eyes and mouths wide opened at the strange, mysterious things that surrounded them, old folks seeking the youth-inspiring atmosphere of the big show, people that had never seen a circus. Around the circus grounds were booths and wagons where circus peanuts, popcorn and lemonade could be bought. There was a park ten miles. That time honored beverage was vaupished, and all that was sold was as clear as crystal.

"When with a fanfare of trumpets and a clapping of hands from the vast audience beneath the domelike canvas roof, the grand march began almost every seat was filled. All eyes were turned toward the entrance as with a fantastically garbed band in the van, the procession of wild beasts, clever and daring performers and equestrians and all the rest of the circus citizens marched by.

"In the big rings something was transpiring all the time. Acrobats and wire walkers provided acrobatics and the breathless expressions of amazement, beautiful and well-groomed horses and intelligent elephants elicited admiration, and a regiment of comical clowns relieved the thrills and brought forth laughs. So different was each act that none could especially be designated as the crowning one of the show.

"There were many equestrian acts, all of which received their due meen.

"Coming as a ridiculous contrast to the daring feats performed near the top of the tent was the 'Congress of Fools,' which constituted a parade of all the clowns in the show. Leading the mob of grotesque, ridiculously clothed funmakers was a good imitation of T. Roosevelt, carrying a gun and a pistol, and with him the animals of the jungle that he had tamed. There was a lion with the orange-colored mane, a giraffe with purple spots, weird beasts never before seen by man, and as 'Toothsome Teddy' strode down the sawdust track with his menagerie on his heels he received the laughs and cheers of everybody.

"The races were thrilling enough, but the real thrills was provided in the first race, when five women riders tore around the track at a quick pace.

"All in all it was the best show that has visited this place for years."

The show will exhibit in Marion Thursday, Aug. 31.

Now, "Whitey" is not his real name. Oh no! In fact he is known by that appellation very slightly. But when he was a boy, a jolly fat boy as the promise of the great big man, intellectually and physically that he is now, this autonymasia was so generally employed that many people were ignorant of his real name. This nickname was given him because of his white hair (he hasn't any at all now,) his white eye brows and lashes and his white skin.

His real name is Ollie M. James the big congressman from the First Kentucky district, the bosom friend of Champ Clark and William Jennings Bryan and one of the foremost Democrats and public men of the day. He is an orator whose services are in demand from one extreme of the nation to the other and whose eloquent utterances and scathing denunciations have been as widely quoted and commented upon as any national figure of this or any other period.

Everybody is familiar with Mr. James public life. So this article is not intended to rehash any of the familiar lore; but, on the other hand, comparatively few are acquainted with his home life his boyhood, his early manhood and the relation he now bears to his home town, and it is to present this that this is written.

Mr. James was born July 27, 1871 on a farm seven miles from Marion. From the first the baby was a neighborhood curiosity by reason of his great size and the peculiar whiteness of his skin and hair, and almost before he was given a surname, he was called "Whitey." It was not long after the birth of the boy that the family moved to Marion where they have lived ever since and where Mr. L. H. James the father has engaged in the practice of law.

The boy's education was secured in the public schools at Marion and it must be admitted that as a pupil he never took any prizes. He had a confirmed habit of strolling into the schoolroom sometime after the tardy bell had rung and barely managed to scrape through with passing grades on most of his studies. But what he may have lacked in studiousness he made up in his penchant for getting into mischief. That his poor recitations did not indicate a dull or slowly working mind was shown by the nimbleness of his wits and his resourcefulness in planning escapades for himself and his companions. Second only to this propensity was his ability in extricating himself and companions, his success generally being due to his persuasiveness in arguing with his teacher or accuser, fore-runner of the eloquence and power in debate which have played such an important part in his later career.

Mr. James might be truly termed a "born politician." From infancy almost he evidenced an interest in politics and as he grew older this waxed stronger. He would go any distance or brave any hardship to hear a political speech; he haunted the polling places on election days, his chief pleasure in reading was to pore over the columns of daily papers given to reporting and discussing public affairs. As early as nine years of age he formed the habit of reading the papers aloud to his father, who suffered much from rheumatism. Mr. James, Sr. encouraged this interest and would discuss the matters read thus impressing them upon the youthful brain. With a marvelously retentive mind for facts and figures, the embryo statesman early became a local authority upon political matters and when called upon, he rarely failed to have the desired information. It is told on Mr. James at Marion that as one man expressed it, until he "was a right smart chunk of a boy," he was a republican. Mr. James emphatically denies this.

But if there was one special line of endeavor in which Mr. James might be said to have excelled his boyish companions, it was in his ability and willingness to carry water for any purpose. He was almost looked upon as the town water-carrier, and he was always ready and willing to undertake a job. Whenever a circus struck town, "Whitey" always paid his admission to the big tent by carrying water to the elephants and among the most cherished possessions of his wife today is a photograph of the sturdy boy which was made by an itinerant photographer as payment for water brought.

To look at him now no one would ever imagine that Mr. James ever took to outdoor sport very much. But he did and one of his special delights was ice-skating. In this he excelled, not only in racing, but in fancy skating. His skill and fleetness was only matched by his ease and grace and no skating party was complete without him.

For some reason Mrs. James, his mother, did not have the ambition for her son to follow the law or politics as a means of livelihood. Her chief ambition was for him to be a dentist and when he did not seem to take to this, she almost succeeded in talking him into the notion of going west to travel as agent for a patent churn or some other household contrivances. But just when it seemed this plan was the accepted one, Mr. James decided to study law and entered his father's office for that purpose.

Having once decided to be a lawyer, he made quick work of it. In a comparatively short time, he passed the required examination and was admitted to the bar and taken into full partnership with his father, the firm name being James & James. But all this time he had kept his finger on the political pulse and he soon began to voice his opinion in the curbstome discussions and it was natural that he should drift into public speaking.

In his first real political debate his opponent was E. T. Franks, a citizen of Marion and a rip-roaring Republican who has since attained a prominent place in the state leadership of his party and was one of the three candidates recently for the Republican nomination for governor. Mr. Franks was an older man and a more seasoned campaigner and the youthful orator of the House of James came out second best, but with great credit to himself and an undaunted spirit.

In 1887 Mr. James made his first step out in real political life. That year he was elected page in the lower house of the state legislature then at Frankfort. The following session he was cloakroom keeper in the senate. The daily association with politicians during this time and the mere being in the vortex of excitement that always reigns at the capitol during a session of the legislature, gave the incipient statesman much valuable training and a keen insight into the game in which he was destined to play such an important part.

Unlike so many others, Mr. James did not climb by slow steps upward to a prominent place in politics. He never held any county offices or minor district or state positions. He considered carefully before asking for anything at the hands of the people and not until 1903, did he decide that the time had come. In that year, he announced as a candidate for representative in congress, his claim for the place being backed up with a record of years of faithful service to his party during which he had established a widespread reputation as an orator and campaigner. His opponent was Sam Crossland of Mayfield, and Mr. James won by a large majority. The First District is the Gibraltar Democratic district of Kentucky and so well pleased were his supporters with his services that he was re-elected to congress four times.

This year he decided that it was time that he was promoted and so asked for the Democratic nomination for United States senator over Thomas H. Paynter, the incumbent. These race between these two attracted much attention because of the bitterness injected into it. Just a few days before the primary election was held on July 1st to decide the matter as to who would be the nominee for this and state offices, Mr. Paynter, very much to the surprise of everyone, withdrew from the race leaving Mr. James a clear field. The latter's vote was a high testimonial to his popularity, he receiving practically the solid vote that was polled.

Mr. James was married December 2nd, 1903, to Miss Ruth Thomas, daughter of Rev. R. Y. Thomas, a Methodist minister who lived at Marion. Her brother, Robert Y. Thomas, has served in various public capacities and is now representative in congress from the Third Kentucky district. As a girl, Mrs. James was noted for her beauty, her graciousness and wit. She is a petite brunette and spends most of her time in Washington with her husband where she is a general favorite.

In religious life Mr. James is as ardent and enthusiastic as he is in politics. He comes of staunch Methodist stock and has not departed from the ways in which he was reared. He is one of the pillars of the Methodist Church at Marion; one of the kind that gives liberally of his means and attends upon all the ordinances. This summer this congregation is engaged in building a new house of worship and Mr. James was one of the first and most liberal contributors.

Practically all of his spare time Mr. James spends at Marion. During these vacations he sits about his beautiful home, loafs in the stores, puts in some time in his law office or the courtroom and mingles generally with the people. He takes a deep interest in the affairs of his home town and is always ready and willing to give aid in any way he can. If it is to help out some local candidate for office he answers the call promptly and carries consternation into the opposing forces with the vigor and power of the speeches he delivers. If it is to raise money for some worthy enterprise or charitable object he subscribes liberally and without delay. In this respect, he is looked upon almost as a patron saint and when help is needed he is one of the first thought of.

Marion is an enthusiastic baseball town and when Mr. James is at home he never misses a ball game. He is king of rooters row and is worth several times the price of admission to see this massive man who always sways multitudes by his magic words seize his hat in his hand and tear up and down and yell and howl as only dyed in the wool baseball fans do. In this pose as rooter in chief, one would hardly recognize him as the dignified, eloquent and profound Ollie M. James, M. C.

While he enjoys his home to the fullest extent, he is not a bit stingy about it and is always anxious to give his less fortunate fellows a taste of it. Many of the most prominent men of the country are frequent visitors at his house. But in addition to this, he very often takes or sends some reminder back to his fellow lawmakers. Champ Clark is especially favored in this regard and receives a large share of the gifts the big Kentuckian bestows. The hefty congressman thinks no one can cure a ham like his father does it. Mr. James fattens and butchers his own hogs each winter and personally superintends the curing of the meat. In the smoking process, he burns nothing but sassafras wood which he claims gives the meat a peculiarly delicate and aromatic taste. One time Ollie took Champ one of the hams and the Missourian liked it so well and expressed such enthusiasm over it, that now he gets one frequently. But perhaps the best of these stories is that about the sorghum molasses.

There is a man named Conger who lives near Marion and whose home-made sorghum molasses is declared to be the "best ever" by people who like that sort of sweetness. Mr. James is very fond of the molasses and so last fall when at home, the notion struck him that his friend and colleague Clark would like it too. When he was ready to leave, he bought him a bright, new tin bucket, put a gallon of the molasses in it, and lugged it in his hand all the way to Washington in order to be sure that it got there safely.

Mr. James is appreciated by everybody, but if you want to see the real, genuine article in appreciation, the kind that is all wool and a yard wide, is guaranteed not to fade, rip, tear or run down at the heel, you should just go to Marion sometime and see him among his town people. The Democrats and Republicans there are about evenly divided in number every time an election is to be held, they fight each other with all the determination and say all the mean, hateful things about each other that Democrats and Republicans generally do on these pleasant occasions. At such times and under such heated conditions, Mr. James comes in for his full share of the lambasting, he being as it were, put in effigy as one of the hated opposition. But aside from politics there was never a more popular man in his home town than Ollie M. James. The Republicans there are as proud of his high position in public life as are the Democrats and they do not mind saying so. Every body feels that in producing a man such as he is the town itself shares to a large extent his reflected glory.

Everybody knows him and to the majority of the people he goes by the name of Ollie. He is as well known throughout the country as he is in town and these rural friends and acquaintances yell their greetings to him as far as they can see him and the recipient of these attentions never fails to stop for a friendly chat and to ask about the health of the family, the state of the crops and matters in general on the farm. But even to this good day, some of the older generation occasionally hails him with the boyhood nom de guerre of "Whitey" and that he has not forgotten it is shown by the alacrity with which the answer is returned. What the future holds for the eloquent statesman can not be foretold, though now it seems to be rich in promise of higher honors than he has yet attained. But whatever may be his lot, the people of Marion will ever be found true to Ollie James and interested in his welfare and ready to do what they can to help him along. That he too will continue to cherish his love for his native town and to feel an interest in all its doings, is assured, and the name of Mr. James and of Marion will continue to be linked together in coming years as they have in the past.

Ballard's SNOW LINIMENT

Is the Right Remedy for All Abrasions of the Flesh.

If the wound is cleansed and the liniment applied promptly, the healing process begins at once and the wound heals from the inside outwardly, thus performing a perfect cure that leaves no scar. If the wound heals on the outside too quickly, pus forms under the surface and breaks out into a running sore that is hard to cure and inevitably leaves a bad scar.

Owners of blooded stock prefer this liniment to all others for that reason, and they use it not only on fine animals, but on human flesh, as it does its work quickly and thoroughly.

Price 25c, 50c and $1.00.

Stemming District

Pursuant to the call of the District Board, members met at the usual voting places Saturday and on information furnished by the Secretary, as to the percentage of the growing crop already pooled with the Association; voted as to whether the pool would be declared off for this year, or go on as usual.

The secretary's report reached us too late to go in last issue of this paper. It was furnished however, to the chairman of the different meetings in this county. In substance it was that the Association already had 80 per cent of the growing crop in Henderson County. 92 per cent in Union, 82 per cent in all of Webster except one district and 87 1-2 per cent in that. In Hopkins county one district had 80 per cent and the other districts were not ready to report. Only a partial report was had from Crittenden, but they thought that about 80 per cent would be pooled in the Association and Farmers Union.

The writer called up the Henderson office Monday morning, and Mr. Banks told him that so Stepping on a rusty nail has been the cause of many cases of lockjaw. The nail was not so much the fault as neglect of the wound. If such wounds were promptly cleansed and BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT applied there would be no lockjaw, as the antiseptic properties of the liniment would counteract the poison and the wound would heal quickly. Price 25c., 50c., and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by J. H. Orme, Marion, Ky.

Many editors, it is to be feared, tolerate the delinquent subscribers on the mistaken idea of showing as large a subscription list as possible. But in this respect times have changed. The advertiser of today does not scrutinize so much the size of a paper's subscription list as he does the character of it. He knows that a man who will not pay for a newspaper will not pay a dry goods or grocery bill. He looks for quality rather than quantity.—American Press.

Capital and Labor Mutual.

M. Thery believes that the wealth of France will increase in the future, but he thinks that the French Government should carefully consider the economic effect of any really aggressive action against capital. To attack capital, acquired fortune and credits—the three cannot be separated—would be reducing their economic action, and this would be a great social error. It would inevitably result in a curtailment of production, of which the working classes would be the first to feel the consequences.—Exchange.

The Master Christian.

The master Christian is no

weakling. He is no pale-faced, frightened, cowering coward who dares not say that his soul is his own. He is no despondent, hopeless, purposeless vagrant, he is no backboneless jellyfish; but the master Christian is a man with red, copious blood. He fears no foe. He stands erect and can look men in the face without shame. He is a man with a purpose and with stamina. The changing winds do not cause him to waver. The mountains of difficulty do not cause him to turn back. In the face of storm he stands unperturbed. The trumpets and chariots of the enemy do not cause him to be dismayed. When fortune turns him down he is still sweet and jubilant in spirit and is still unconquered. No adversity can cause him to languish and pine. The master Christian has God and is greater than any tempest. No circumstances are too overwhelming for him to rise above. Always, everywhere he is the friend of the friendless, the stay of the weak; he is the merciful, the comforter, the pure in mind and in heart, and life and inspiration to the spiritually dead.—Alva J. HAS 100 OFFERS OF MARRIAGE

Portland, Ore., Aug. 29.—A December and May romance, springing from a matrimonial want advertisement was ended here today when the municipal department of public safety for girls refused to permit William G. Delaney, a middle-aged blacksmith, to marry Vera Clark, a pretty 16-year-old girl, of Paducah, Ky., who came to Portland on Delaney's solicitation a month ago.

The girl saw Delaney's advertisement.

tisement in a Kentucky paper and she answered it. Delaney wooing her by mail, she accepted him, coming to Oregon on the $57 which he sent her.

The authorities affirm that Delaney is in no position to support a wife. Delaney demands that the girl repay the $57. She being without funds, has secured a position, intending to earn money with which to repay him. Her only living relative is a grandmother in Paducah. More than one hundred Oregon men have sent written proposals to the girl.

Gentle Downpour Over Western Section of Kentucky Give Crops New Life.

A soft, $1,000,000 downpour of rain which began in Louisville at 6 o'clock this morning and which two hours later developed into a soaking rainfall has broken the drought in this locality and, in fact, has put a damper on the rays of Old Sol all over Western Kentucky. It is conservatively estimated that the rain will increase Kentucky crops to the extent of $1,000,000.

At noon to-day the instruments at the Weather Bureau registered more than an inch of rain—almost an inch and a half. The official measurement was 1.37 inches.—Times, Monday evening

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 26.—William Lee, in a written statement this afternoon, confessed he killed his father, his mother and his brother in their home at Boonville, Ind., early Thursday morning because his parents refused to consent to his marriage with Mina Taylor.

He said he brooded until he lost his sense, then grabbed an axe, struck at his father, but hit his mother, then felled the brother, who raised in his bed, and, lastly, felled his father, who came at him.

Officers left Evansville immediately, taking Lee to the Jeffersonville reformatory in an automobile, fearing a mob would hang him.

STEALS CHILDO

Durant, Okla., Aug. 24.—After a search of fifteen hours for the negro who attempted to attack Mrs. A. Wilkerson at Colbert, 15 miles south of here last evening, the pursuit was dropped today by Sheriff Hamilton.

It developed today that the negro was dressed in woman's clothing when he entered the Wilkerson home. Mrs. Wilkerson fled when she discovered that the negro was a man. He seized her 3-year-old child and threatened to kill it if she did not return. She ran to her husband who was working in a nearby field and gave the alarm.

After carrying the child some distance toward Red river, the negro dropped it and fled. It is thought that he escaped to Texas.

FIREMAN KILLED

Paducah, Aug. 29.—While going at top speed, answering an alarm four squares from the station at 10 o'clock last night, company No. 3, of the Paducah fire department in a hose wagon collided with an Illinois Central switch engine. Driver Morris Ingram, aged thirty-six, was killed outright and three other firemen were injured, one perhaps mortally.

One of the horses was knocked under the engine, derailing it, with Morris' mangled body wedged beneath.

A scientist claims that the eye is so luminous that a person seated in a totally dark room can see the movement of his arm by the light of his own eyes.

The Seventh of August.

Monday, August 7th, 1911, was a great day to the children of Crittenden county. This being the day set apart for all the common schools of this county to begin. We believe that our efficient Supt., Travis, did the right thing when he named the same day for all schools to begin. We believe he had the idea in his mind when he named that day, that the common school should be true to its name. A common day for all schools to begin. The same chances for all, the same instruction and each school taught by a worthy teacher.

In my imagination, I can see the anxious teachers of this county as they stand in the doorway of the school houses, watching and waiting for the children, ready to make their acquaintance, hoping to gain their love and respect on this, the first day. And dear teachers, this is the day for a great battle to be fought and a glorious victory to be won, or you will go down in defeat and you will lose your generalship. I see too, the happy children as they wend their way from palace and cabin, down the dusty lanes to the school house, where the past is forgotten, the walls of partition torn down and where they meet upon common ground, each to lend a helping hand in the greatest undertaking in life. I can see them as they come from a thousand homes and each the subject of a thousand cares. The school children, what wonderful possibilities are hidden in each little mind! Much is said about the great fairs of our day. But, to my mind this is the greatest fair, where each home, family and community exhibits its culture, taste and style.

Dear teacher, if you desire to gain a knowledge of the daily in-door life of your pupils, you need not take the time and care to visit each home and their observe their private drill and teaching. Closely observe these boys and girls and you will find out, by their actions, all about that inner life. They are the true exponents of that home.

These boys and girls are society in blossom. This day, in old Crittenden, is the brightest hour in life's great day. The dewy season of home life is past and this called the world's brightest, best phrase, and in many respects it is so. The turmoil of home life are past, and personal independence has come, and responsibility is a new thing. The present is full of activity and the future is bright with its visions of hope. This is the time for impressions and reciprocal love. No period in life is fraught with such momentous interest. Here are to be settled the greatest questions of life, and the essential thought and judgement is profound for the inexperienced teacher.

I love the school children, for they have opportunity. Let me ask you one question, children, and so soon as you read it, lay down your paper and read it no more until you give your earnest and thoughtful answer. "What shall be the greatest aim in life of a boy or girl?" You should set your ideal high and do all you can to reach it.

There is thrice more for you to know and do than fell to the lot of your father and mother, and God has ingeniously provided the means. Discovery and invention have introduced machinery, and if you are wise enough to appropriate the time, sound thought and mental training, and not waste it on frivolous and foolish vanities, we will have men and women coming from the schools of Crittenden county, capable of keeping pace with the times and the growth of our county and state. It will soon be for the children of this county to step forward and take up the interest of this nation, where their fathers and mothers have left it. Will they be prepared to do it?

CALDWELL SPRINGS

A fine shower of rain fell Friday, making everybody happy and gay.

Corn will be better than was expected for a whiler

Lule Jeffords and wife passed a pleasant day with Mrs. Cas Cruce, in Lyon county, Friday.

Mrs. Rose Mayes is visiting her sister, who lives at the Cumberland bridge.

Rev. John Board, of Flat Rock, visited friends here Friday.

Messrs. P. K. Cooksey and Fred Ramage, Dycusburg, passed through here Thursday enroute to Lyon county.

Frank Jones, of Arkansas, was visiting here Friday.

Archie McElroy, who enlisted in the United States army three years ago, is at home with an honorable discharge.

There is some talk of a new pavement around the public square in Adamsville. Let the good work go on for it is needed.

Our Magistrate, Esq. Yandell, has shown us some fine work on our roads with the grader. Now if our overseers will supplement this work as far as they can, we will have good roads this winter.

Our farmers are busy getting ready for the Ordway & Wyatt colt show which comes off Sept. 2nd, 1911.

If we had our new road opened up now, we fellows down here, would feel like we had been greatly blessed this season, anyway. A new bridge over Livingston creek and a good road to church, it ought to make us feel all good, and we are just as thankful to our county officials as we can be until we get that new road, then we will hollow, sure.

Rev. John Board entered school at Caldwell Springs, Friday. He is just a little over school age, but our teacher don't care.

Mrs. Mary Henson has been quite sick, the past week.

Two Miss Glenns, of Eddyville, visited Jim Glenn and family Wednesday.

We attended church at Dycusburg Sunday and heard Rev. Bailey preach an excellent sermon.

Of course, they didn't have the opportunity to get better things and so had to be satisfied. They were happy and contented in a way, too. But today you try to make your home truly a home, and there is no possible excuse for not doing so, when you have access to our stock of house furnishings. Whether you want a few odd pieces or a complete outfit, you will find what you want in our up-to-date stock. We are proud to show you these pieces and you will be just as proud to own them; and if our prices don't sell the goods, we won't try to. In view of this fact, is it not poor business for you to send away from home for goods, for which you will have to wait weeks—perhaps months—and which you will not see until after they are paid for?

giving each county two terms in succession, shows how unselfish they are, and how ready to meet the reform that has already begun with other counties which alternate in the election of representatives.

It is with pleasure, that I remember that during the last session of the House when I was serving you as best I could that your message came that your committee had decided to step aside and let Crittenden name the man, thereby giving me a chance to come back to finish my work. Later the Crittenden county committee met and accepted the generous offer of your county. On April 8th a convention was called at Salem to name the time and manner of nominating a candidate; a primary election was called for July first to nominate and no one asking for the place on June 14th, the primary was called off. A nominating convention was called, of which you were the chairman, a quorum of each county being present I was nominated to succeed myself in the House of Representatives. This nomination coming to me unsought and as a voluntary act on the part of splendid Democracy of your county, makes it imperative that I respond to the call. You shall never have cause to regret your action. But I have one request to make of your splendid people; if you ever get reform we must have a senate true to the people; therefore do your part by electing Mr. Glenn to the Senate. Our toil of weeks last session was turned down without consideration by a Senate whose leaders seem to give but little concern for the cause of the common people. I hope for better things this time in the Senate, or to be frank with you if I did not, under no consideration would I consent to run again. The people should remember therefore that it takes two Houses to make a legislature, and however hard one may work, its work can be turned down by the other, or if passed by both, be at last vetoed by the Governor. Both these happened many times last session. My first work, if elected, will be to take up educational work and send the bill passed by the House last session or a better one to the Senate. Seldon Glenn has promised me to take charge of it and help get it through the Senate, thereby giving every child in the state a show for an education, and the taxpayers a voice in the disbursement of their money. I shall stand against consolidation of the schools under the present circumstances. I believe in more schools and better ones. I believe that the state owes as much to the child in the small isolated district as the child in the village or town.

My greatest ambition is to cast my vote for that great friend of the common people, the Hon. Ollie M. James, for United States Senator.

Respectfully,
M. F. Pogue.

Wealthy Negro Gives

Barbecue For Washington.

Forrest City, Ark., Aug. 21.—Negroes of this vicinity gave Booker T. Washington an ovation Sunday when he stopped here en route to his home in Tuskegee, Alabama, from the convention of the National Negro Business Men's League just closed at Little Rock.

Scott Bond, a wealthy negro, who owns large tracts of land in this vicinity, gave a big barbecue at Crowley's Ridge, seven miles from here, in honor of the negro leader. One hundred cows, sheep and pigs had been roasted for the event. A crowd estimated at 10,000, including many white people, listened to Washington's address. He praised the progress of the negro in Arkansas, and said he had been especially impressed by the friendliness of the white people for the industrious negro.

Louise Speaks Her Mind.

If a man walks two squares with a girl and calls on her once, there are some people who start the report that the man is in love and that she is "crazy" about him. Such remarks often spoil an enjoyable friendship between young people and they get so disgusted and annoyed by the round of talk that they feel compelled to drop their relationship with each other. A girl should not get the idea that every man who seeks her society is in love with her and the man who thinks a girl is in love with because she is nice to him, is a fool. The sooner boys and girls—and the older men and women and the meddlers—cease talking about "cases" and encourage friendship, the happier will be the social life of young people. —Miss Louis Babbage in Breckinridge News.

Accused of Stealing.

E. E. Chamberlain, of Clinton, Mo., boldly accused Bucklen's Arnica Salve of stealing—the sting from burns or scalds—the pain from sores of all kinds—the distress from boils or piles. Kills Lion With Jackknife.

Brownsville, Texas, Aug. 21.—News reached here yesterday that Juan Morales a Spanish farmer, living seven miles out of town, with a jackknife as his only weapon, killed a mountain lion which had killed one of his children in their home, bound up his arm, which the lion had lacerated and crushed in the fight and walked into town, where surgeons say he must sacrifice his arm.

Morales' three-year-old boy, thinking the lion was a dog, had called it into the house and started to pet it when the animal attacked the children. Their screams brought their father from his field, but the babe, which had attempted to pet the beast, had been killed before Morales had arrived.

Astor May be Wed on

The High Seas.

New York, August 30.—Considerable mystery today entered into the Astor-Force romance when it was learned that Col. John Jacob Astor's yacht, the Noma, would sail today under sealed orders, with the Colonel, his fiancée and members of the Force family on board.

It was also learned that the yacht had been provisioned for a long cruise.

These facts led to a report that Col. Astor intended being married on the high seas.

See What They Found

At Bottom of Well.

Paducah, Ky., August 28.—An alarming condition has been discovered in the wells of the county schools and County School Superintendent L. W. Feezor has sent out letters to the trustees calling their attention to the cases. He says that the wells must be cleaned out before they are used again, as the lives of 6,000 children are endangered. In one case a well was cleaned out and a lizard, dead rat and several snakes were found in the bottom. The trustees are expected to take action at once for the opening of the schools.

Free Dyspepsia Sample

Sufferers from indigestion are waking up to the fact that peppermint, leucages, charcoal and "dyspepsia cures" are only makeshifts in the cure of so troublesome a complaint as chronic indigestion. What is required is something that will not only relieve but which will tone and train the digestive apparatus to again do its work normally, and this these simple remedies cannot do.

There is something more to the cure of indigestion than sweetening the breath, and yet a remedy that only contains digestive ingredients will not cure permanently, as the basis of indigestion is poor bowel circulation, and that requires a scientific laxative. We know of no remedy that combines these requirements better than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which has been sold for a quarter of a century.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a laxative tonic, a scientific blending of natural ingredients for the cure of constipation, indigestion, liver trouble, acid stomach, sick headache and similar ailments. Its ingredients will so strengthen and tone the stomach and bowel muscles that they will again do their work naturally, and when that has been accomplished your trouble is over. Fannie Stuart, Staunton, Va., was a long-time sufferer, as was O. Turk, Blackburn, Mo., and they both found their cure with this remedy. They became convinced that pills and tablets, salts, "dyspepsia cures," etc., were at best only temporary relief. They first accepted Dr. Caldwell's offer of a free sample bottle, which he willingly sends to anyone who forwards name and address. Later, having convinced themselves through the free sample, they bought Syrup Pepsin of their druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. H. Caldwell, 1,200 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

STEAMER COLUMBIA RAMS INTO ICEBERG

Nine Injured in Smashup With Floating Ice Mountain.

New York Aug. 7.—The smashed bow and torn decks of the Anchor liner Columbia, in port today from Glasgow, bore silent testimony to the collision of the steamer with a huge iceberg in mid-ocean last Wednesday.

Nine passengers and sailors were injured, but despite their cuts, bruises, broken arms and dislocated collar bones, all praised the captain and heaven that the damage was no worse.

So dense was the fog at the time, and so high was the berg, out of the water that no one saw its top. Those who were brave enough to tumble out on deck estimate the height of the berg as being 150 feet out of water and describe it as of cube formation.

As the bow of the liner wedged its way twelve feet into the berg, tons and tons of ice broke and fell on the decks, burying the lookout man, Tom Murray, under it. Nine men worked for five hours ridding the deck of its icy cargo.

GAS PIPE BREAKS

And Man Meets Horrible Death Near Lawrenceville.

A most distressing accident occurred about four miles north of Lawrenceville last Saturday evening in which a well known farmer, Phillip Burrell, was accidentally burned to death instantly and his partner was so frightfully burned that he may die as a result. The two victims of the horrible accident were moving a threshing machine, which they were operating, to a new location. In doing so they crossed a gas pipe line belonging to the Snowden Brothers Co., which was buried only about two inches under the ground and the big heavy mud spikes on the engine's drive wheels punctured the pipe line. The line carried a heavy pressure of gas and instantly the escaping gas was ignited by the fire in the engine and completely enveloped the machine in a mass of flames.

The two men were at once blinded by the seething mass of enveloping flames and attempted to jump from the engine. This, Mann was successful in doing, but Burrell fell between the wheels and the fire box of the engine and was unable to extricate himself. In this position he was held and in a few seconds was burned to death, and the body almost reduced to ashes.—Lawrenceville News.

Thirty Years Together.

Thirty years of association—think of it. How the merit of a good thing stands out in that time or the worthlessness of a bad one. So there's no guesswork in this evidence of Thos. Ariss, Concord, Mich., who writes: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery for 30 years, and its the best cough and cold cure I ever used." Once it finds entrance in a home you can't pry it out. Many families have used it for forty years. It's the most infallible throat and lung medicine on earth. Unequaled for lagrippe, asthma, hay fever, croup, quinsy or sore lungs. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Haynes & Taylor and J. H. Orme.

WELL, WHAT HAPPENED?

Last Sunday, a colored preacher, who is noted for his rugged eloquence, was requested to pray for rain. Being of an accommodating disposition, he readily consented, and offered up a petition that was fervid, variegated and unique. He said in part:

"Then knowest, oh, Lord, that we is havin' the worst drought beah that you eveh saw. De craps is all dryin' up, de watch millions is whilted on de vine, de streams is about stopped runnin', sweet 'aters is about all killed an' famine is about to bust forth in all its fury. De whole lan' is as dry as an onery, unconverted niggah in a prohibition town, an' somethin' raly mus' be done or thy sarvents will all perish.

"Now, what we need is a good soakin' rain, an' we implore thee to heah our prayers an' turn de flood gates of heaven loose. De time has gone by when de gentle dew will do any good. We don't want no gentle showers with rain-bows and twitterin' birds, nor any sizzly-sozzly sprinkles, but we wants a regular rip-smartin' rain, screamin', sodsoakin', gully-washin', gravel-heavin', trash-movin', root-searchin', down-pourin' rain.

"Den, oh, Lord, let de thunder beller, let de lightnin' flash, let de clouds burst an' send us rain that will soak de grou' cleah down to de bowels of de earth an' cause springs to burst forth in all de valleys an' make de desert bloom as de rose."—Carthage Democrat.

THAT AWFUL BACKACHE

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Morton's Gap, Kentucky.—"I suffered two years with female disorders, my health was very bad and I had a continual backache which was simply awful. I could not stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal's victuals without my back nearly killing me, and I would have such dragging sensations I could hardly bear it. I had soreness in each side, could not stand tight clothing, and was irregular. I was completely run down. On advice I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills and am enjoying good health. It is now more than two years and I have not had an ache or pain since I do all my own work, washing and everything, and never have the backache any more. I praise it to all my neighbors. If you think my testimony will help others you may publish it."—Mrs. OLLIE WOODBACH, Morton's Gap, Kentucky.

Backache is a symptom of organic weakness or derangement. If you have backache don't neglect it. You get permanent relief you must reach the root of the trouble. Nothing we know of will do this so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for special advice. Your letter will be absolutely confidential, and the advice free.

THE SACRED COLLEGE.

The death of the cardinal archbishop of Sydney, New South Wales, the highest dignitary of the Roman Catholic church in those parts, still further reduces the membership of the Sacred College, to which Pope Pius has been so reluctant to make additions.

Though the fainting spells from which the Pontiff has been suffering need not necessarily cause harm, it is natural that they should give rise to anxiety; natural, too, that they should direct attention to the quite unusual smallness of the consistory that would be called upon to elect his successor should his illness have a fatal termination. If we are not mistaken that consistory would have less than fifty members, of which, Cardinal Gibbons would be fourth in seniority; as some one has pointed out, death has been busier removing Cardinals than the Pope in making new creations, and it happens that only fourteen survive of his nomination. Of the others, all of whom had a share in his election, one, Cardinal Oreglia Di Santo Stefano, was a member of the consistory in which his predecessor, Leo XIII., received the tiara. It has recently become known that all those foreign Powers, which, in earlier times, assumed a sort of right of revision of the choice of a consistory—Austria, as we remember being the most prominent—have relinquished that claim; it has been intimated more than once that it prevented the election of both Cardinal Merry Del Val and Cardinal Rampolla; whether such rumors be verifiable or not it is certain that the next choice will be one wholly in the discretion of the Sacred College.

Miss Vera McCord's Marriage Announced

Upon their return from their wedding trip from Chicago and through the west, Miss Vera McCord and Mr. Frank Gucker announced their marriage in Cairo, Ill., last Saturday. The marriage was performed in the presence of only their Cairo friends and their friends in this city were unaware of their marriage until their return last night. The ceremony was performed at the parsonage of the First Christian church by the Rev. A. M. Sells. Mr. and Mrs. Gucker will reside at 123 North Seventh Street.

The bride has resided in Paducah for several years and is a popular young lady. She removed to Paducah from Marion. She is an attractive girl of the blonde type. Mr. Gucker has resided in Paducah for some time, having removed to the city from Mattoon, Ill. He is an employee of the Illinois Central rail road. The news of their marriage although not unexpected, proved a pleasant surprise to their many friends in the city.

Most Famous Postoffice.

The smallest simplest and best protected postoffice in the world is in the Straits of Magellan. It has been there for many years. It consists of a small keg or cask and is chained to the rocks of the extreme cape in such a manner that it floats free, opposite Tierra del Fuego. Each passing ship sends a boat to take letters out and put others in. This curious postoffice is unprovided with a postmaster, and is, therefore, under the protection of all the navies of the world.—Tit Bits.

Entertainment.

On Tuesday night Sept. 5th, Providence people are to have a rare entertainment in way of a musical, instrumental, vocal and reading by some of our local talent which by the way can't be excelled in the state. Miss Gwendoline Haynes will be the pianist and she is well trained in all that the word means—having only recently returned with her diploma from one of the south's finest teachers, at Ward's seminary in Nashville. Miss Lena Holtzelaw, who is our own and unimitable in recitation, needs only to announce her expected appearance here to have an appreciative audience. She is as bright and sparkling as a star and no one in Providence who enjoys wit and humor, refinement and ease combined on the stage should fail to hear her. Miss Anna Haynes, vocalist, has a voice of rare sweetness, and melody, and her selections are much sought where she is known. The past winter she spent in Stetson's university at Deland, Fla., and was much benefited by the stay there. We bespeak for them a crowded house at Providence which has always been a community of not only culture and refinement, but wealth to indulge it and where genuine talent has always been appreciated.

THOMPSON JURY FAILS TO AGREE

Jury Discharged After Deliberating Over 24 Hours—Accused Slayer Out on Bond.

Dixon, Ky., Aug. 26.—The jury in the Thomas Thompson murder case was discharged this evening after failing to reach an agreement during 24 hours confinement.

The final ballot registered eight votes conviction on a manslaughter verdict and four for acquittal. Two jurors standing for conviction, it is reported, agreed to vote in favor of freeing him if the remainder voting for a manslaughter verdict would vote for acquittal.

Young Thompson expressed surprise on hearing the jury was hung. The expression on his face told that the young accused murderer expected acquittal on the charge of slaying his father.

The jury got the case about 5:30 o'clock yesterday evening. They were locked up for the night and deliberated up to about that hour tonight. The judge made inquiries as to the probabilities of an agreement. He called the jurors for a report a little later.

Young Thompson's bond was reduced tonight from $10,000 to $5,000. A. V. Thompson, Charlie Childs and Richard Thompson uncles of the young man, went his security.

Thompson will probably not be tried again until the December term of court.

Going Spring School District.

We, the patrons, who helped to install the Going Spring district were glad and willing to build the house, and now that it is being talked that this district will be annulled, should use our authority and keep it from being done.

For if it is, it will throw half our children to go to Post Oak and the other half to the Marion school therefore making them walk as far again as they should if we keep the district.

In this state of high civilization we need all the schools that are possible and we would readily oppose the town to which we carry our produce being moved, with the objection that it would make it inconvenient for us, but we will turn our backs on the fact that our school is being taken from us and think nothing of the inconvenience that it will make for our children.

When it gets cold and muddy, of course we can not send our children and we are willing that our children should not attend and grow up novices. Now let us awaken, get our district in order, and therefore prohibit its being discontinued.

INVENTOR OF THE BESSEMER PROCESS

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 22.—Today saw the centenary of the birth of William Kelly, who is generally credited with the invention of Bessemer process for converting melted cast iron into malleable steel, a discovery which revolutionized the steel industry and helped to make Pittsburg and neighboring towns one of the greatest industrial centers in the world.

Kelly was born in this city, August 22, 1811, and early in life manifested an uncommon aptitude for mechanics. In 1845 he removed to Eddyville Kentucky where he acquired an iron furnace on the Cumberland river, the ruins of which still stand and is known as Kelly's furnace. Here it was that he conceived the plan of dispensing with the fuel in the process of refining or decarbonizing iron by the introduction of a current of air. After several years of experimenting he finally perfected the process, which was long known as "Kelly's Air-Boiling Process," and which was used for the manufacture of boiler-plates before Sir Henry Bessemer was known. When the latter brought out his process in England in 1856, Mr. Kelly asserted that Bessemer had obtained his knowledge of the process from English workmen employed by him in America. Subsequently both inventors applied for patents in the United States, but the commissioner issued one only, to Mr. Kelly, acknowledging the priority of his invention of the process.

Kelly married Miss Mildred Graecy, of Eddyville, Ky., and raised his family in the old Graecy home which still stands there. His sons took to iron and steel industries and opened an axe factory at Louisville soon after leaving Eddyville. They afterward moved to Anderson, Ind., but the failure of the gas-field caused them to seek the coalfield of West Va., at Charleston where they now run the great Kelly axe factory, the largest in the world, and where they have amassed a great fortune estimated in the millions.

WINIFRED KING TOUCHED LIVE WIRE

County Boy Electrocuted in Pine Bluff, Arkansas

Winifred King, 25 years old, son of George King of the Rosebud section of this county was killed by a live wire last Friday at Pine Bluff, Ark. Telegrams to his father telling of the accident were received here and the remains were brought to the old home and buried in the King grave-yard on the old place, Sunday by the Masons. The full particulars of the accident have not been received yet but should we get them we will publish them. Our Repton correspondent sends in the following in regard to the sad accident.

The writer has just returned from the funeral services of Winifred King, son of Geo. King. Winifred was an electrician and was at Poplar Bluff, Ark., at work for a telephone company. While at work among the wires his foot accidentally came in contact with a live wire, and the shock overbalanced him and he fell thirty feet lighting on his head breaking his neck. The members of the Masonic Order took charge of the remains and laid them to rest in the King cemetery with their accustomed ceremonies.

Marion Citizens Gladly Testify And Confidently Recommend Doan's Kidney Pills.

It is testimony like the following that has placed Doan's Kidney Pills so far above competitors. When people right here at home raise their voice in praise there is no room left for doubt. Read the public statement of a Marion citizen:

Thomas L. Hillyard, Railroad St., Marion, Ky., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills came to my relief after I had suffered a great deal from kidney trouble and had spent much money for medicine without receiving any benefit. Two years ago I was taken with an attack of typhoid fever and upon recovering, found that my kidneys were badly disordered. The pains in my back were so severe that frequently I had to leave my work and lie down for several hours. There was a constant desire to pass the kidney secretions and I was obliged to arise several times during the night. The kidney secretions were also highly colored and the passages were attended with pain. I became dizzy and dark spots floated before my eyes. A relative, hearing of my condition, advised me to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial and I procured a supply at Haynes & Taylor's Drug Store. They cured me in less than two months. For over two years I have had no return attack of my old complaint and am bound to look upon my cure as a permanent one."

SLAYER IN STRUGGLE FALLS FROM ELICTRIC CHAIR.

Eddyville, Ky., Aug. 22.—When Oliver Izeck, a negro wife murderer, was paying the penalty for his crime at the penitentiary today the condemned man, through whose body 2,000 volts of electricity were coursing, struggled for twenty-eight minutes with superhuman strength, and finally broke the leather straps that bound his legs and arms to the death chair. After breaking the straps the negro toppled to the floor and apparently succumbed, but an examination by the prison physician revealed the fact that he was slowly reviving.

His body was again strapped to the chair and 2,000 volts of electricity was turned on. Several minutes elapsed before life was extinct.
